

ABSTRACT

There are provided a soft agglomerate of copper oxide ultrafine particles which has an average primary particle diameter of not more than 100 nm and an average secondary particle diameter of not less than 0.2 μm and a method for producing the soft agglomerate.